

GURU NANAK DEV ENGINEERING COLLEGE, INDUCTION 2025

Day 6 – A Warm Wednesday at GNDEC

Day 6 of my induction at Guru Nanak Dev Engineering College began with a beautiful and warm Wednesday morning, the kind that makes you feel both relaxed and excited for the day ahead. The atmosphere was peaceful yet buzzing with the energy of learning.

Our day officially started at 9:30 AM with a Chemistry lecture by Mandeep Kaur Ma'am. Her way of teaching was clear and easy to grasp — it made me feel like this subject won't be as difficult as I had imagined. It was a great start to the morning.

Then at 10:30 AM, came my favourite subject: Mathematics, taught by Gaggan Deep Kaur Ma'am. I genuinely enjoyed her class — the way she explained concepts with calmness and clarity made math feel enjoyable and engaging.

After the lectures, we took a break, and like typical college students, a group of us headed straight to the canteen for some snacks. I had a samosa, and while it wasn't the tastiest one I've ever had (a little different from what we get in Himachal), it still added to the fun of living and eating in a new city like Ludhiana. The warmth here is quite different from back home, but I'm slowly adapting to it.

During the break, we also visited the college library, and honestly, it left me amazed. It was quiet, peaceful, and filled with books — a perfect place to study, reflect, or just spend time with knowledge. The calm environment gave me motivation to sit and read there often.

After lunch, from 12:30 PM to 2:00 PM, we had an inspiring session by Dr. Arvind Dhingra, the Director of STP and Incharge of TAC. His insights into the structure of training and placement in the college gave us a strong glimpse into how our future would be shaped through career development activities.

Following that, we had an extremely engaging session with Mr. Jasvir Singh Sekhon, the District Resource Person. The way he interacted with the students and the topics he discussed made it one of the most interesting sessions of the day. He kept the class alive with real-life examples and motivational ideas.

To close the day on a refreshing note, Dr. Lakhvir Singh Khanna conducted a short but effective stress-relief session using clapping exercises. It may sound simple, but it truly helped in boosting energy and lifting our moods. It made the entire hall feel connected and light-hearted.

After the sessions ended, I walked back home with a smile on my face, feeling a little tired but extremely satisfied. I had a hot cup of tea, sat down, and reflected on how wonderful the day had been. Every moment — from learning in class to relaxing with friends — felt like a step forward in this exciting new chapter of life.
